

Justin Singer

Justin Singer is a Principal in EY's Wealth & Asset Management Consulting practice. He has over sixteen years of experience providing strategy and management consulting services to many of the top wealth management, asset management, insurance, and retirement firms in the US. Justin's passion for wealth management and retirement stems from his father, who was a Financial Advisor, which is to drive innovation and change in the financial services industry to (1) address our country's retirement savings gap and (2) better help families achieve their financial goals. His efforts have helped financial institutions drive customer focused growth strategies as well as improvements to their offerings and operating margins through strategic and tactical projects. As EY's Americas Retirement Leader, Justin recently brought together over 65 leading firms and over 100 executives across the US retirement ecosystem to innovate on the future of retirement, leveraging global use cases, new advanced technologies, and an industry shift to partnerships to drive improved customer outcomes.
